DENVER SPRING CONVENTION REPORT, by ED YOUNG

Coin Conventions have proved to be a great attraction for everyone. Some of the events have been very successful and some have faltered. Of course the most active bourse, which we boast for the past few years nearly 60 dealer's tables. The Convention made a nice profit this year, which we need to bolster our treasure for coming things in C:NA,

One thing we need is more support from our clubs, members and board, last but not least exhibitors.

The 1975 Convention will also offer guests and events as plans are now in progress for next year.

GRATITUDE: It is my wish to make public my "THANKS" to each and everyone of the participants in the Denver Spring CWNA Convention, with special mention to those who worked close with me. Without those who helped me it would have been impossible to have a good convention.

I would also like to express much thanks and gratitude to my wife Barbara, for her very worthy support during the long period of preparation and the show.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CWNA BOARD (TO BE INCLUDED IN THE NEXT BULLETIN)

Two (2) proposals mede at the CMNA Board Meeting during the Spring Show in Denver that hat by do with regulations governing future CMNA Coin Shows, deserve some serious thought before being approved by the Board and Membership.

One, that would limit bourse space to "FULL TIME" coin dealers. Who is to define what constitutes a full time coin dealer? Let's teke an example - a dealer owns his own building, but it is larger than what he needs for his business, so he rents out part of the building. He also has a franchise to sell store fixtures, not only to other coin stores, but could elso be used in other retail outlets, such as gift shops, jewelry stores, etc. Now, is he a "FULL TIME COIN DEALER" - or pert time coins, part time landlord, and part time fi xture dealer?

Maybe another also sells stamps and supplies — wouldn't he be a part time stamp and part time coin dealer? Or maybe one also deals some in antique watches. Who is to decide whether a coin deeler has other income andfrom what source, that eliminates him from the classification of "FULL TIME" Coin dealer? So far no good reason for wanting this regulation has surfaced. If it is to impress the Bourse Dealers, surely a much batter impression could be made if the show committee took positive steps to eliminate the ATTACHE CASE DEALER who has NEVER paid bourse fee, yet openly works the bourse area of the floor for the entire three (3) days — finds a customer, then takes him behind a friend? Dealer's table to complete the transaction. Then back on the floor looking for another customer, repeating with still another dealer's table or sitting down at a table where the dealer has closed for a while, or he has folded up and left the show.

If the CMNA Board elect to pass this regulation, who is to be responsible to check on 59, or so, Bourse Applicants to make sure that they maybe don't also sell insurance, or Antiques, or Real Estate, or Fixtures, etc.? If a dealer were denied a bourse table on any such grounds, and later could show that bourse space was sold to another dealer that had other interests besides coins, and decided to file discrimination charges, who would be responsible to face these charges?

The other proposal - limiting bourse space to dealers thet were mambers of CWNA. To an outsider this could be taken two (2) ways - That CWNA was in financial straits and needed the additional income from required dues, or that CWNA by-pass this, wanted to limit bourse to dealers in the erea who probably were members of CWNA.

If a membership is felt necessary wouldn't it be better to require membership in ANA?

The Board should take a long hard look at these two (2) proposals, or any others that might be made, and determine if they are really necessary and would the good points of eny regulation outweigh the detrimental effects that they might have, before voting to put these Regulations into effect.

THANK YOU BUT den

ADDITIONAL REMARKS FROM TOM MASON:
Spending a few extra dollars to belong to CWNN assures the Dealer that he will be treated right the next year when he puts in his application for future tables. If the party calls himself a dealer, whether his shop or where he works his coins out offthe bank vault, attle, besement shoping center, as long as he wants a table and works under a business title, is licensed to collect sales tax in the respective state where his business is titled and reports it there. Then being a member of CNNN is just a step of assurence to every one in his realm knows he has friends and is trying to help the area prosper numismatically. California, A.N.A., Nebraska, and others all work their shows this way. I have gone the whole route from coast to coast - small collector to any combination of the big time and feel this is a small but important part of CNNN by-laws.

Best regards,

Much publicity has been given to the idea and naming of Wampum as a form of Indian Money. Actually the wampum was a development of the early Dutch inhabitants of the New York area of New England. A crystal called Aranganite a natural formation of the mineral world has popularly been called Indian money. The early inhabitants of the New World traded many items over long distances has been proven by Archaeology digs.

Quartize a form of sandstone occuring in Wyoming was traded and used for projectile points, knives and scrapers all the way back east to Pennsylvania. Dentallium a sea shell from the coast of Oregon and Washington was traded into the high plain areas of the Dakotas and Montana well before the appearance of the white man. Turquoise was traded from the Arizona, New Mexico areas all the way down to Mexico City. Domestication of corn is proof of the extensive trade in the New World. By the time Columbus reached the New World in 1498 not only had corn been carried from the area around Mexico City to New England but also a new hy-bred had reached the New England shores. Copper was traded from the Lake Superior region well down into the Ohio Valley centuries before the advent of the white man.

This extensive trade was apparently carried on for many centuries with no coins or currency. There is no evidence of any such usage. All of these transactions were carried on by a system of barter. Even the early Aztec records of taxes and levies were on a barter system, so many cocoa beans, so much corn, so many parrot feathers, etc., down the list. Many of these barter items came to have a standard value but never represented a different value as our money does today. We can't even claim silver or gold as a base for our money. Only clad steel!

The early explorers of the New World were quick to percieve a virgin territory when they saw it. All of their early trade was done on a barter system. The wonderful world of steel, porcelain dishes, bright glass beads was desired by the Indians as soon as they saw them. The glass beads were far more showey than the died porcupine quills. The steel knives and strikealites easier to use and carry than the stones they replaced. The beaver pelt was a standard of value and most other items were placed on a scale in relation to it. The first coins brought to the New World were used by the Indians as items of Jewelry, not as money. Even the treaties signed by the United States Government were listed in barter fashion, so much cloth, beef, grain etc.

There is no evidence that the Indians ever developed a coin or currency system. They only accepted ours after all else failed.

C.W.N.A. is getting a new look in our medals. The above sketch is the design that won first place in the medal contest. It was submitted by C. Gale Klein. The die is being struck at this time and we hope to have a showing at the Fall Show. For information and ordering of the medals contact the Medal Chairman, C. Gale Klein, P. O. Box 382, Sun City, AZ 85351. The medals will be made in Bronze, etc. The purchase price has not been determined at this time.
